

There is a possibility that the reflected light is concentrated at a different place.

The broken line shows the incident light.

The full line shows the light reflected from the colour foil.